35 Days
Till Christmas

At the end of a long, hard day, I found myself standing in line at a fast-food restaurant with my husband, Stan, and our three-year-old daughter. The service was painfully slow, and my husband's temper began to mount.

"Look, honey, it's been a long day," I said, trying to console him. "You're tired, I'm tired, she's tired..."

But before I could say another word, Stan interrupted me, smiling. "You conjugate well," he said.

It should be easy to make an honest living- there is so little competition.

Resting atop a large mountain after five hours of climbing, we noticed another group not far behind us. When they settled at the summit nearby, I heard one of them mention how hot it was, and then asked his friend if he would like a cold beer. His friend was astonished. "You carried beer all the way up here?" he said.

"No," the first guy replied, rummaging through his friend's backpack, "you did."

While driving home from the golf course, my mother-in-law got a traffic ticket for making a left turn too close to an oncoming car. Fervently disagreeing with the officer's judgment, she contested the ticket in court, claiming that the other car had been at least 150 yards away.

"But how can you be so sure about the distance?" the judge asked.

"Your Honor," my mother-in-law replied, "that car was exactly a seven-iron shot away from mine."

With that, the judge held up his hand. "I've heard enough," he declared. "Case dismissed."

My wife and teen-age son belong to a local tae kwon do club where they learn the strict rules of the discipline. The head instructor of the club is a highly ranked black belt whose tae kwon do title is

"Sabumnim." Away from class, Sabumnim is a plumber named Dave.

One day, after making several futile attempts to unclog a blocked pipe, I called Dave. An hour later, he pulled up in his truck just as we were going out the door.

As he came up the walk, my wife and son, stood rigidly at attention and bowed deeply from the waist. Dave gave a quick nod in return and went on into the house. Just then, I saw my next-door neighbor standing in his yard, watching us with a perplexed look on his face. "Wow," he said. "That guy must be one great plumber!"

Some luck lies in not getting what you thought you wanted but getting what you have, which once you have got it you may be smart enough to see is what you would have wanted had you known.

A new nurse listened while the doctor was yelling, "Typhoid! Tetanus! Measles!"

The new nurse asked another nurse, "Why is he doing that?" The other nurse replied, "Oh, he just likes to call the shots around here."

A mother mouse and a baby mouse were walking along, when all of a sudden, a cat attacked them. The mother mouse goes, "BARK!" and the cat runs away.

"See?" says the mother mouse to her baby. "Now do you see why it's important to learn a foreign language?"

Two elephants jumped off a cliff..... BOOM BOOM!

My cuckoo clock is broken all it does is come out and shrug.

Two women were comparing notes on the difficulties of running a small business. "I started a new practice last year," the first one said. "I insist that each of my employees take at least a week off every three months." "Why in the world would you do that?" the other asked. She responded, "It's the best way I can learn which ones I can do without."

A businessman dragged himself home and barely made it to his chair before he dropped exhausted.

His sympathetic wife was right there with a tall cool drink and a comforting word. "My, you look tired," she said. "You must have had a hard day today. What happened to make you so exhausted?"

"It was terrible," her husband said. "The computer broke down and all of us had to do our own thinking."

A Tourist was driving down a country road in Kentucky when he saw a little boy walking down the road with only one shoe on.

He stopped and said, "What's the matter son? Did you lose a shoe?"

The boy says, "Nope! Just found one."

A family was having dinner and the little boy said, "Dad I don't like the holes in the cheese!" Well son, eat the cheese and leave the holes on the side of the plate.

A college graduate applies for a job as an industrial spy. Together with several other applicants, he is given a sealed envelope and told to take it to the fourth floor. As soon as the young man is alone, he steps into an empty hallway and opens the packet. Inside, a message reads: "You're our kind of person. Report to the fifth floor."
